

Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe Dies At Age 53

Circleville fire chief Bernard D. Wolfe, 53, 358 E. Mound St., died early Sunday morning of an apparent heart attack. Chief Wolfe had been with the fire department for 27½ years and had been chief for the past 11 years. He began with the department in May of 1946.

As the only fireman taking the examination for the chief's post when Talmer Wise retired in 1963, Wolfe succeeded Wise to the top post with the department July 1 of that year.

He ranked high on the civil service examination for the post and was subsequently appointed by then mayor Richard Penn to the job.

It was through his efforts that the fire department is presently so well-equipped. Chief Wolfe convinced city officials that a one-mill levy should be passed for a period of five years to purchase equipment for the department. With the money derived in this manner, the fire department has added the ladder truck, pickup truck and several other major pieces of equipment.

Through the efforts of Chief Wolfe, Circleville has by far the best equipped fire department of any town of Lt. Glen M. Jones, 206 Cedar Heights, has been appointed acting fire chief. It was announced by Ed Ebert, Circleville safety director.

Jones is a veteran of 19 years with the fire department and is the ranking lieutenant in seniority.

He will serve until a civil service examination can be given for the post. At the same time, a civil service examination will be given for the position of lieutenant.

Only lieutenants are eligible to take the chief's examination according to Ebert.

"I hope Jones will take the chief's examination," Ebert stated. Jones was on vacation, but came in immediately to serve as acting chief at Ebert's request.

Senate Opens Final Debate On Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is set to open final debate on Nelson A. Rockefeller's vice presidential nomination with overwhelming approval expected.

Senators opposed to the nomination of the former New York governor have asked for time to recount the details of the controversies that have slowed final action on the nomination. The debate begins today and a final vote is scheduled for Tuesday.

The Rockefeller-related controversies revolve mainly around his gifts and loans to public officials and the potential impact of his family's billion-dollar fortune on the federal government if he becomes vice president.

The Senate Rules Committee recommended 9 to 0 last week that the nomination be approved. The House Judiciary Committee is expected to recommend approval with no more than 10 dissenting votes in its own balloting later this week.

Meanwhile, both houses of Congress have scheduled a busy week that could include action on several major pieces of legislation.

The Senate is to begin a lengthy debate on the Housepassed foreign trade bill that includes a controversial provision aimed at helping Soviet Jews emigrate if they so desire.

President Ford has said he needs the measure — which gives him five-year authority to lower tariffs and remove other trade barriers — to divert international economic disaster.

The Senate has set a vote Wednesday on a bill giving the Office of Economic Opportunity another year of life.

Later in the week a vote is expected on an $8.7-billion supplemental appropriations bill containing funds for virtually every government department.

The bill is controversial because it contains an anti-busing amendment that denies the government the right to cut off funds to a school district which refuses to obey a desegregation order.

Opponents of the move will attempt to send the entire measure back to a conference with the House to delete the amendment.

The House has set a schedule that could result in action on as many as 22 separate pieces of legislation.

These include several controversial measures, such as a bill that the Ford administration claims places too many restrictions on strip mining.

Other measures on the House list include two measures aimed at

Strict Fuel-Saving Plans Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public hearings are going to provide a forum for business and consumer groups to give their ideas on U.S. energy policy as President Ford's advisers prepared to huddle at Camp David to weigh some strict fuel-saving proposals.

Dozens of witnesses at the three-day hearings beginning today were scheduled to comment on the "Project Independence" study submitted last month by the Federal Energy Administration and to discuss the complex issues involved with energy policies.

Consumer concerns and business concerns were the topics at today's hearings.

The hearings precede a policy session of the cabinet-level Energy Resources Council, whose 20 members are to bring their recommendations to President Ford in time for presentation to Congress in January.

The ERC has scheduled a meeting this Saturday at Camp David, a top-security presidential retreat in the wooded Catoctin Mountains some 90 minutes' drive from downtown Washington.

There have been increasing indications lately that the top energy and economic officials invited to Camp

David may be cooking up the "tough turkey" that President Ford has warned about: some form of mandatory measures to reduce energy consumption.

Ford has established a goal of cutting oil imports one million barrels a day by the end of 1975.

He hoped to accomplish this with voluntary public cooperation, warning that tougher measures were the alternative.

The White House now has begun admitting that voluntary fuel-saving has not been working very well.

John C. Sawhill, the departing head of the Federal Energy Administrator, has been saying for weeks that voluntary efforts would not work. Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who takes credit for ousting Sawhill, has recently begun to agree with him.

Sawhill and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon have long urged consideration of a higher gasoline tax to discourage consumption. Ford has said publicly he opposes such a step.

Morton has also suggested other possibilities such as a return of tight fuel allocations similar to those of last winter.

Other possibilities being mentioned include a quota on the amount or value of oil imports, taxes on crude oil or automobile horsepower and direct gasoline rationing.

States Ponder Economic Pinch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Initiation and economic problems reflected in the average consumer's grocery bills also affect state governments. But most state officials surveyed by The Associated Press believe state governments won't really begin to feel the squeeze for a year or more.

Since state budgets are prepared on a fiscal year basis, July 1-June 30, the current economic situation and rate of inflation were not taken into account when budgets were drawn up last spring.

However, the Commerce Department reported Sunday that the growth of state tax revenues for 1974 didn't keep up with the rise in prices. Tax income for all 50 states totaled $74.1 billion in 1974 compared to $68.1 billion the previous year. This was a rise of only 8.9 per cent compared to a 10.9 per cent jump in prices for the same period.

This means that the surpluses projected in most state budgets for the current fiscal year will have a tendency to evaporate. And drawing up the 1975-76 budgets in coming months will force many states to choose between raising taxes or cutting services.

"We are looking at a rather tight budget situation the rest of this year and all of next year," said Florida Budget Director Wallace Henderson.

Gov.-elect Richard D. Lamm of Colorado said the national economic situation "gives a message to all of us. This is a time for extreme caution."

Officials from some states said increased taxes or changed tax structures may be necessary to meet inflation-related problems.

Most states rely heavily on sales taxes for revenue. Some combine sales and personal income taxes. Only a few, such as Delaware, have no sales taxes and rely primarily on earnings taxes which decrease as massive layoffs are implemented.

In Delaware, the Governor's Economic Advisory Council meets monthly to review the state's financial outlook. Members say they are

Most Coal Miners Back On The Job

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — As expected, most of the United Mine Workers' 120,000 soft coal miners returned to work at 12:01 a.m. Monday, the first day of production in most mines in almost a month.

There were scattered reports of absences from the midnight shifts which returned to work for the first time since the strike began Nov. 12. Some had expressed dissatisfaction with a contract approved last week by 56 per cent of those voting during the ratification process.

Others, mostly in Indiana and Illinois, said they would remain off the job until the UMW's construction workers had signed a contract with the Association of Bituminous Contractors.

Joe Smith, a pit boss at Peabody Coal Co.'s Latta mine near Jasonville, Ind. said some construction workers picketed there.

"We called our men back to work. But the ABC men were picketing and they didn't get back in," he said, adding that Peabody's Dugger mine was also picketed "but I don't know if it's happening elsewhere."

Smith said it wasn't a very good night for picketing. "When I came in it was snowing, and one of the pickets told me it's a hell of a night to do this," he added.

Picket lines were formed outside a few Illinois mines Friday by some construction workers, one of whom placed a newspaper ad asking miners to remain home in sympathy until a settlement is reached.

UMW President Arnold Miller had requested construction workers not interfere with returning miners, adding that the union could be liable for damages. Although members of the UMW, the 4,400 construction workers are covered by a separate contract.

BERNARD D. WOLFE

equivalent size. All defective and old worn fire hydrants have been replaced through a program he instituted a few years ago.

Chief Wolfe was a graduate of Washington Twp. High School in the class of 1939 and served with the United States Army in Europe during World War II.

Just before entering the armed forces, he was employed at the Pickaway Dairy and then qualified as a fireman shortly after his discharge from the Army.

He has been a mainstay with the local fire department ever since.

Chief Wolfe is survived by his mother, Floy (Jean) Brobst, Route 4; his widow, Mary O. Liest Wolfe; one son, Roger; three grandchildren.

Private graveside services will be Wednesday at the Forest Cemetery, with Pastor Carl Zehner officiating. Friends may call at the Defenbaugh, Wise and McCain Funeral Home beginning noon Tuesday.

Memorial contributions to the Burns Unit at Children's Hospital or to the Trinity Lutheran Church building fund would be appreciated by the family.

Common Mart Summit Eyes Oil Program

PARIS (AP) — Common Market leaders gathered today for a two-day summit conference. A key question was whether France was ready to join the others in accepting the United States proposal for a common front against the oil exporting countries.

The other eight members of the European Economic Community have generally endorsed Washington's proposal that the major oil consumers unite for eventual price negotiations with the Arabs and other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

France has refused to join such a consumers' club, seeks separate deals with the oil states and urges holding an immediate conference of consumers, producers and developing nations.

French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues told newsmen Sunday he thought the conference "will not discuss the energy question at length" because "the differences are between the French and American points of view," and this would be dealt with fully when President Ford meets French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing in Martinique next Saturday.

Sauvagnargues spoke to newsmen after West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt returned from Washington and talked by telephone with Giscard. The fact that the French were not going to press their European partners for support was taken by some diplomats to indicate that Schmidt may have worked out a compromise.

The energy question is just one of the tough problems that the Market leaders face in Paris. The nine — Britain, France, West Germany, Ireland, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Denmark — are expected also to consider more frequent meetings and a pledge to work more closely on economic matters.

The agenda does not include Britain's bid for cheaper membership terms in the Market, but conference sources said Prime Minister Harold Wilson is determined to bring up the subject. France and some of the other members are against any change.

Greeks Decisively Reject Monarchy; Republic Planned

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Greeks by a vote of more than two to one have rejected the monarchy for the third time in this century, and the government announced today that parliament will probably elect a provisional president this week.

The final official count from Sunday's plebiscite was 3,236,345, or 69.2 per cent, in favor of a republic and 1,443,804 votes, or 30.8 per cent, for the return of the monarchy. Twenty-five per cent of the eligible voters did not vote.

The leading candidate for the provisional presidency, a largely figurehead post, is former premier Panayiotis Canellopoulos, 72.

He will be replaced in a national election. But before that is held Premier Constantine Caramanlis will submit a new constitution or constitutional amendments to parliament defining the presidential powers.

It is not known yet whether he will propose a strong presidency with policy-making powers, like the American and French presidencies, or a weak figurehead, with policy as well as government administration remaining the province of the premier elected by parliament.

Whatever Caramanlis proposes is certain to be approved since his New Democracy party has a majority of almost three to one in parliament. If he chooses a strong presidency, he is expected to run for the post himself and to get it.

There was no immediate comment on the outcome of the plebiscite from ex-King Constantine, who fled from Greece in 1967 after an abortive attempt to overthrow the military junta that had seized power eight months before. He said before the vote that he wanted to return to "the home of my forefathers whatever the result."

But Caramanlis said Sunday night: "I don't think it would be wise for him to attempt to return in the near future."

Other government sources said the former king would have to accept the verdict of the plebiscite and relinquish all his royal titles and claims before his return could be considered.

Constantine has been living in England with his wife, who was the Danish Princess AnneMarie, and their three children.

The rejection of the monarchy was generally expected, but the size of the vote against it surprised some observers. When the military dictatorship abolished the throne last year and made Greece a republic, the vote for the republic in a ratifying plebiscite was 78.4 per cent. But it was considered surprise since it was held by the dictatorship.

Greece was also declared a republic in 1924. The monarchy was restored in 1935 by a 97 per cent vote in a plebiscite, but it was generally considered rigged. And in the 141-year history of the Greek throne, five other kings have lost their thrones due to forced abdication or foreign occupation.

Poll Shows Ford Ahead

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll says that if the presidential election were held now, President Ford would win over three leading Democrats.

Ford would receive 48 per cent of the vote to 45 per cent for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and 7 per cent undecided, the poll showed.

Gallup said that if Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was the candidate, Ford would get 47 per cent to Jackson's 42 per cent, with 11 per cent undecided.

The poll showed that Ford would receive a clear majority only in a race with Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who would get 39 per cent to Ford's 53 per cent and 8 per cent undecided.

Heavy Fighting Sweeps Vietnam

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Saigon command reported a fourth straight day of fierce fighting and shelling attacks today in the southern half of South Vietnam and along the border with Cambodia.

The command said casualties in the fighting had risen to more than 2,600 on both sides. It reported 248 government troops killed, 990 wounded and 210 missing and claimed 1,180 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed, many by air and artillery strikes.

Military officials acknowledged that security had deteriorated in the fertile Mekong Delta south of Saigon, where the bulk of the attacks were concentrated, and in Tay Ninh province bordering Cambodia to the northwest of the capital. But the officials claimed the Viet Cong had taken a heavy beating.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market backed down again today after an early recovery attempt.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about three points from Friday's 12-year closing low in the early going, was off 3.60 at 574.00 by noon. Losers held a 4-3 edge on gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

The initial upswing, a brief gesture of welcome for the slight cut announced late Friday in the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate, gave way to continued concern over the recession, analysts said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .77 at 58.36.

Phillips Petroleum lost 1 1/2 to 35 1/2 on top of a 5 1/4-point drop Friday. Brokers related the selling in the issue to reports late last week that Norway was proposing a sharp increase in taxes on oil properties in its sector of the North Sea, where Phillips has important interests.

Oil service and drilling issues also encountered continued pressure.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks declined .20 to 34.25.

Meat Price Freeze Set

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Labeled a test run, Kroger Co. has reduced and frozen meat prices effective today at 63 Cincinnati and Dayton area stores for four weeks.

The move comes a week after Kroger put a freeze on more than 1,100 items in the grocery chain's 1,240 stores.

Prices on 30 beef cuts and ground beef items have been reduced 10 cents to 60 cents per pound and will remain at the level until Jan. 5, according to Walter R. Dryden, vice president of Cincinnati's Kroger Food Stores.

"Meat prices are volatile and we do not know if we will be able to continue the program after that," he said.

"If our meat costs go up, we will absorb the cost if they go down, meat prices will go even lower," Dryden said.

He said meat prices at Kroger, which serves more than a dozen states, have dropped 5.9 cents per pound in the past year.

The price freeze includes the entire meat department—beef, pork, veal, lamb, wieners, bacon, luncheon meats, poultry and fish.

Last week's freeze included cereals, canned vegetables, cheese, rice, frozen foods and other items which represent about two-thirds of grocery department purchases in Cincinnati stores. The freeze on these items will be in effect until Feb. 1.

Dryden said the meat prices will be frozen at or below their Dec. 2 level.

See Record Cattle Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exports of U.S. cattle for breeding purposes may set new records this year both in terms of quantity and value, the Agriculture Department said today.

Although the department did not project total figures, exports were up about 10 per cent during the first half of 1974 from the same period last year. Exports of beef cattle in the first half totaled 23,544 head valued at $20 million, compared with 15,097 head worth $10.4 million in the first six months of 1973, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said.

However, dairy cattle exports were down to 16,488 head in the first six months from 20,476 exported a year earlier. The value was down only slightly however, to $13.2 million compared with $13.9 million.

'Grass' Grabbed From Sheriff

GREENVILLE, Ohio, (AP)— An estimated 490 pounds of baled marijuana has been stolen from the Darke County Sheriff's office here, police said today.

A spokesman said the drugs were the only items missing in a burglary of the office.

The marijuana was wrapped in seven bales, each containing 70 pounds of the contraband, police said. It had been collected during several narcotics investigations.

Deputies believe the thief or thieves may have crossed over into nearby Indiana and headed south for Kentucky.

Greenville is about 25 miles east of Winchester, Ind., in extreme western Ohio.

Blaze At Hotel Being Probed

CLEVELAND, Ohio—Fire officials were to probe the embers of the Hawley House hotel this morning, searching for clues to the origin of a Saturday night fire that killed one fire fighter, injured 11 persons and left 45 others homeless.

No damage estimate had been determined Saturday.

The most seriously injured of the residents, William Smith, 68, was in guarded condition with extensive burns at Metropolitan General Hospital's burn ward, a spokesman said.

Two fire fighters admitted to Lutheran Medical Center suffering from smoke inhalation and superficial burns were reported "doing nicely," by a spokeswoman there.

George Neff Gun Shot Victim

A Pickaway County rural man died of self inflicted gun shot wound 4:06 p.m. Sunday, according to Sheriff's Authorities, investigating the incident.

George W. Neff, 49, Route 2, apparently placed a 410 gauge single shot shotgun to his head killing himself instantly.

Neff's wife stated that he went out for a walk approximately 3:30 p.m. She called for him at 4 p.m. but received no response.

Checking the property, Mrs. Neff found her husband lying behind the barn with the gun beside him.

Dr. F. W. Anderson, assistant county coroner, pronounced Neff dead at the scene, of massive head injuries.

Born Sept. 24, 1925 in Circleville, he was the son of Charles A. and Hazel Marie Fee Neff. His mother survives at 547 Mowrer Road.

He was an electrician, member of the Trinity Lutheran Church, American Legion and WWII veteran.

Survivors include his widow, Ruth Melvin Neff; two sons, Stephen L. Route 1; Terry D., of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Noel (Rebecca) Rader, Route 2, Ashville; Miss Nancy Neff, 547 Mowrer Road; Mrs. Eugene (Marianne) Zeeck, Columbus; Mrs. Edward (Margaret) Ebert, 235 Watt St.; two brothers, Charles W., Route 3; Hugh A., Route 2; one grandson.

The funeral service will be 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Trinity Lutheran Church with Pastor Carl Zehner, officiating.

Burial will be in the Jackson Twp. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Mader Funeral Home, beginning 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The family wishes memorial contributions be made to the Trinity Lutheran Church building fund.

Set Purchase Of U.S. Jets

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands have decided to buy American jet fighters built by General Dynamics to replace their aging U.S.-made F104 Starfighters, the Oslo daily Morgenbladet said today.

The usually well-informed newspaper said Norway's Defense Minister Alv Jakob Fostervoll will give a briefing in Brussels today on the decision to recommend purchase of the Texas firm's YF16 jet.

The paper said Belgium, which had joined the three governments in selecting a new plane for their air forces, had not made up its mind but would probably also buy the $5-million YF16.

Belgian and Dutch government spokesmen expressed surprise at the Oslo report. A Belgian Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Brussels he had not heard of any decision and did not expect any until next month.

The Dutch Defense Ministry called the reports "completely premature" and said research reports on competing American, French and Swedish jets were not expected until the third week of December.

Drug Probe Hits Playboy Enterprises

CHICAGO (AP) — The former head of security for Playboy Enterprises said he testified three months ago to a federal grand jury about drug use at the mansions of Playboy publisher Hugh Hefner in Chicago and Beverly Hills, Calif.

In a telephone interview, Allen H. Crawford said Sunday that he resigned his post last July because Playboy officials ignored his warnings about "the narcotics problem and people of questionable character that might be associated with Playboy."

Seven Playboy employees reportedly have been subpoenaed to appear this week before a grand jury in Chicago in connection with a federal investigation by the Drug Enforcement Administration into drug use inside Hefner's enclaves.

The investigation was disclosed after the recent federal conviction of Hefner's social secretary, Bobbie Arnstein, for conspiring with a boyfriend and another man to distribute cocaine.

Miss Arnstein's arrest last March reportedly sparked an order by Hefner, who was in Las Vegas at the time, to remove all drugs from both mansions, officials said.

Crawford said from his home in Mendham, N.J., that he learned of the problem about 2 1/2 years ago when he became head of security.

"I certainly had knowledge that there were people that were using drugs, but not on the basis that this was a place of distribution or anything else," said Crawford, vice president in charge of investigations for Wells Fargo Investigative Services, Inc., in Randolph, N.J.

"Hefner is a very congenial host and has the Playboy philosophy that people are adult and make their own decisions," he added. But that "doesn't mean Hefner has knowledge of it, or condones it, or distributes."

Crawford said he never discussed the alleged drug use with Hefner, but he added that he submitted reports for Hefner's attention.

Narcotics investigators contended that drugs were not sold in the mansions, but were made available to guests and some staff members.

4 Women Break Jail

LOWELL, Fla. (AP) — A statewide search was under way today for four women armed with knives who took a switchboard operator hostage and escaped in a prison van from the Florida Correctional Institution.

Prison officials said the women gained access to the control room in the administration building Sunday night, where they took Elizabeth Peeler, 54, hostage.

Two of the escapees were serving life terms at the prison for first degree murder and additional time for previous prison escapes, officials said. All four were called dangerous by Rex Newman, spokesman for the Department of Corrections in Tallahassee.

State prison officials said they were trying to determine how the women obtained the weapons and entered the control room of the prison in north central Florida, near the Ocala National Forest.

Kuznetsov Succumbs

MOSCOW (AP) — Vice Adm. Nikolai G. Kuznetsov, commander of Soviet naval forces during World War II, has died at the age of 72, it was reported Sunday. Demoted twice by dictator Josef Stalin, he was reinstated in 1950 and was navy commander until retirement in 1956.

Dear Friends,

In addition to the exacting demands of the art and technical care of the deceased, the professional services of the funeral director are of major importance.

The funeral director must be a competent counsellor, able to handle all situations amid extreme mental and emotional chaos. He must always be compassionate, capable, and thorough, in order to resolve any confused situation which might arise into one of calm and reassurance.

Respectfully,

A Page Of Opinion

Negotiated Pleas

"Plea bargaining," the practice of prosecutors accepting guilty pleas to lesser charges in order to expedite courtroom proceedings or perhaps in exchange for a defendant's cooperation, is coming under fire by judges. The technique is not new, but it has been widely used in a number of celebrated cases recently and has attracted more public attention than ever. For plea bargaining to work, all three parties must agree: the defendant, the prosecutor and the judge. It is within the judiciary that some opposition has begun to develop. The concern expressed by some judges, including Judge John Sirica of the Watergate case fame, is that justice may not be done by the bench routinely approving the practice.

A negotiated plea where relatively minor charges are involved does help clear congested court dockets and saves the state's time and expense in going to trial. But even those motives have come under question by attorneys who see plea bargaining as an open-ended procedure which must be more closely controlled.

Braddock--Above His Piers

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Jim Braddock, the former heavyweight champion who died the other day, was a gentle, honest soul whose destiny was to be cast adrift in a scenario bulging with some of the most colorful and seamiest characters in the history of the crazed business called boxing.

Jim was all washed up, everybody believed, long before he became the "Cinderella Man" that magic night, June 13, 1935, when he took the title from the overwhelmingly favored Max Baer. Nine years earlier Jim had fought Tommy Loughran for the light-heavyweight title, then had slid so far that he would up as a hungry coolie on a Jersey pier. That's where Joe Gould found him, broke and despondent in the middle of the Great Depression, and led him to his brief period of glory. (And a diet of steak instead of hash.)

Joe Gould was a fine manager, a fast-talking sleight-of-hand artist right out of a tale of Damon Runyon. Some of the fastest talking Joe ever did during a now-you-see-it-now-you-don't performance was directed at Runyon himself.

Runyon owned a piece of Joe Louis, who had come along phenomenally in the wake of Braddock's grinding comeback. It was inevitable that Louis would take Braddock's title, given the opportunity. It was just a question of how Max Schmeling could be gypped out of his rightful shot at Braddock. Max had beaten Louis very badly in their first meeting. He was the logical contender, therefore, when Braddock made king.

Gould, who later went to prison for robbing a guy who was just a little too big for him, Uncle Sam, laid it on the line to Runyon, Mike Jacobs and the other partners of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, plus Louis's crown, that he would see that Louis, not Schmeling, would get the shot at Braddock, provided. . .

It was quite a "provided." Braddock and he, Gould, must be given ten per cent of Louis's earnings for ten years after Louis became champion. It is doubtful that Braddock knew anything about these spooky transactions while they were being discussed and agreed upon.

Now, this much having been settled, the problem was just how to get rid of Schmeling's claim. That was extremely important within the conspiracy. In the first place there was every likelihood that Schmeling would knock out Braddock easier than he had stopped Louis. In such an event, Schmeling would then return to Germany and be hailed by Hitler and the rest of the Nazi hierarchy as the ultimate Aryan type and the Third Reich would indeed last a thousand years.

Both Braddock and Schmeling were "owned" by Madison Square Garden. The Multi-million dollar sports complex had controlled boxing's champions since Tex Richard's days as matchmaker-in-residence. Both Braddock and Schmeling were products of a cynical system that superseded the authority of the politically-appointed New York State Athletic Commission.

Richard's successor Jimmy Johnston, be-derbied, be-Cockneyed, and the toughest little matchmaker in the business, therefore felt it his duty to announce that when the Garden's man Braddock made his first defense of his newly-won title it would be against its man, Schmeling.

Johnston had been nicknamed "The Boy Bandit" by towering, fearless Dan Parker of the New York Mirror. But the rival crowd, which owned Louis, had elevated banditry to a higher level. In addition to Runyon and his two sportswriting associates, and Jacobs, Rickard's genial old ticket scalper, Louis (who was as gentle a person as Braddock) was surrounded by his two managers of record and by a kind of keeper-trainer. The managers were Julian Black, a suave Chicagoan, and John Roxborough, a Detroit lawyer. Both black businessmen. Their business was mostly the numbers game. One went to jail on a tax rap. The keeper-trainer was Jack Blackburn. A razor-scarred old lightweight who had spent time in prison on a murder rap but had been sprung in time to take over the stumbling young fighter, steer him through Golden Gloves competition and Detroit, and became his Svengali as he became one of the most gifted heavyweight fighters of all time.

All paths to the title were made clear for Joe. Twentieth Century's wily old lawyer, Sol Strauss, won a landmark case in Philadelphia that defeated Madison Square Garden's rights to a Braddock-Schmeling fight in New York and enabled Twentieth Century to throw Braddock into a Chicago ring with Louis.

The estimable judge's name, by an unnerving coincidence, was Fake.

Madison Square Garden went through with its pathetic charade. It printed up about 60,000 tickets for the non-existent Braddock-Schmeling heavyweight championship fight at the Long Island Bowl, a long-gone place the boxing writers called the Great Depression. The ultimate pathos of the gesture was that Schmeling's name on the fancy tickets was spelled Schmeling.

Braddock lifted us all out of our seats that night in Chicago when, early in the fight, he flattened Louis with the last beautiful right of his life. But Louis got up, as he always did, and gave Jim a horrible beating. The knockout punch, to Jim's jaw in the eighth, I remember writing, sounded like a golf ball would sound as it hit the pavement after being lobbed out of the Empire State Building.

Jim was a dear guy who walked through the rest of his life warmed by memories of two dreams-come-true. He had won the heavyweight championship of the world, and only a handful of men could make that claim. And at the end of his boxing life he had gotten up on his toes and given rugged Tommy Farr a superb boxing lesson through the last two rounds, to beat the over-confident Welshman. The rafters shook.

Jim was special in another way. He liked sportswriters. The only time he questioned me was after I had an interview with him about a report that he was going to try a comeback. Jim said "Hell's bells, I'm not going to let them make a football outta my head."

It so happened that the Mirror had a wonderfully pious man named Clarence Cassin on the sports desk at that time. Clarence changed the quote to read, "Heck's bells..." Jim claimed I had made him sound like a sissy.

I was never able to explain it to him. Sorry, old buddy.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Being a typical parent I pick up the newspaper every night and read about all the bad things our teenagers are doing. I thought it might be pleasantly surprising to hear about the good teenagers.

Two weeks ago my daughters and some of their friends came to me with the "we have nothing to do anymore" story. With some reservations I agreed to let them have a small party (30 to 35 guests). As accidents will happen, it turned out there were approximately 92 people in and out during the evening.

The music was loud enough to drive me to my room through the wall to wall people, but all invited conducted themselves in a manner in which every parent can be proud. Nothing was broken and almost everyone wanted to help clean up the mess after the party was over. When it came midnight they knew the party was over and nobody had to be reminded to go home.

We had a few out-of-towners who whop up, but as soon as they found out the kids were having a nice clean fun party they disappeared in a hurry.

The kids from Teays Valley have a very fine rapport and respect for each other. When you get 92 teenagers in one house I think you kinda expect trouble, but these kids just had a real nice time and I'm here to tell you parents we've done a pretty good job of getting them this far along.

I'm proud of my three daughters and their school, Teays Valley and the little town of Ashville.

Everyone thanked the girls for the party and most of them including the boys thanked me. They're good kids and welcome in my home anytime.

Sugar Profits Go Into Orbit

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixmonths earnings for Great Western United Corp., parent company for the nation's largest sugar-beet processor, soared above the levels of 1973, the Denver-based company said Friday.

Great Western United, which controls Great Western Sugar Co., said unaudited figures for the half year ended Nov. 30 indicated profits after taxes of $36.75 million or $17.44 a share, compared with earnings of $1.06 million or 51 cents a share in the like period a year ago.

On a percentage basis, which many analysts say is meaningless because of the company's abysmal record last year, the six-month results are 3,367 per cent above those reported in 1973.

In the past year, sugar prices have risen over four times in some areas, from as low as 79 cents per five-pound bag to over $3. Sugar producers like Great Western, which shares its profits with beet farmers, have seen their earnings grow with the price.

Councilman Eats His Words

PERU, Ind. (AP)—Miami County Councilman Bill Deeds, who is on jury duty this week, was present for a council meeting that took up the appropriation for food catering, lodging and other jury expenses.

While the appropriation was being discussed, Deeds jokingly observed that "the meals aren't very good...."

Thursday, while Deeds was serving on a 12-member jury, 11 trays of food were delivered to the jury for lunch.

Deeds got the 12th tray which held only a newspaper clipping on the council meeting and Deeds' comment about the meals.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Hey, this is great! Ordinarily I only get about 14 miles to a gallon!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I had a bad case of frostbite last year. Even though I completely recovered I worry that there is something wrong with my circulation that will make this happen again.

Mr. J. D., Minn.

Dear Mr. D.: It is undoubtedly true that people with poor circulation are more susceptible to low temperatures. But even those with good circulation, when exposed to freezing levels, can be hit with frostbite.

Frostbite is an injury to the delicate, exposed tissues of the body. It is imperative for those people living, working or playing in cold climate to recognize the earliest symptoms of frostbite.

A sensation of pins and needles, numbness, and a distinct pallor can be the beginning of frostbite.

The tips of the fingers, the earlobes, the nose and the cheeks, as well as the toes, are most apt to be stricken first.

When frostbite is suspected, the person should be brought into a warm room, to allow gentle thawing. The frostbitten area should be immersed in tepid (not hot) water.

Frostbitten parts should not be massaged or rubbed too vigorously, because the delicate skin may be broken and exposed to infection. The frostbitten leg or arm loses its sensitivity. Extreme heat, therefore, may not be felt and more damage may be done by burning the area.

Prevention of frostbite is the best "treatment." Warm clothing, preferably in several layers that do not tightly bind the body, warm, dry insulated gloves and socks, and waterproof shoes should all be part of the protective "treatment."

All clothing and shoes should be loose enough so that they do not constrict the blood vessels.

Last year, a patient of mine was caught in a snowstorm and walked a short distance to a garage. He developed frostbite in that short time and was incapacitated for months.

A precaution against such an experience would be to carry warm, waterproof overshoes and an extra supply of warm clothing and warm gloves in the trunk of the car.

In your specific case it would be wise to have your blood circulation checked to see if there is any problem that requires special attention. In any case, having been "bitten" one, you should be more aware of the importance of good protection against the cold.

High Cost

By JIM BISHOP

Congress may be injurious to your wealth. It is the only body which cannot be investigated by another body. We have 435 Representatives, each of whom earns $42,500 a year, costing $18,487,500.

Each member, under law, is permitted to spend $168,000 to get himself reelected every two years. This also applies to 100 hard-working Senators, who earn the same salary and are offered the same losing proposition to get reelected.

The day after election, 98 Congressmen who lost took off in jets for junkies to foreign countries. These are called lame ducks, but they fly exceedingly well and charge the taxpayers for every mile.

Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen (R-N.J.) had announced that he is retiring from public office. So he made a trip to China at public expense, then flew to London for more goodies.

Forty per cent of Congressmen make a free trip each year. Abroad, they often use foreign exchange funds at the U.S. embassies for incidentals. If, as President Ford advises, we Americans should tighten our belts, shouldn't we first find out if Congress allowed us to keep our pants?

How much does the Congress actually cost you? In salaries, 535 elected men and women cost $22,737,500. Milton Gwirtzman, who served as assistant in the Senate, writes in The New York Times Magazine that the budget is $328,000,000. This leaves a gap of $300,000,000 give or take a few million.

In the Franklin Roosevelt Administration, each Congressman had an office, a secretary and an assistant. Today, in addition to his own salary, each Congressman is allowed $192,000 a year for office help. He is also permitted at least one office in his home district.

Congressmen have a total of 16,000 men and women working in their offices. These people are paid by the government of the United States but spend a good part of their time making the Congressman look good.

The budget of each chamber is devised in secret and passed by voice vote. The Senate then sends its budget to the House; the House sends its budget to the Senate — and each passes the other's without question of hearing.

When I visited the office of Senator Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) years ago, he had 39 persons on the pad. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wisc.) has 42. Each Congressman is allowed an administrative assistant at $37,000 a year. Behind him are the press agents.

Everybody has a press agent. Alan Cranston (D-Cal.), who used to be a newspaperman himself, has three. Hundreds of P.A.s will produce their man for any old press conference on any old subject at any old time.

The fight for news space is so vicious that some press agents fight others on the same team. To get 20 seconds of time on network news is worth a rise in salary.

The Congress, like the scorpion, seldom stings itself to death. Once, in 1946, it passed an act limiting the Senate to 15 committees, the House to 19. This turned out to be painful to worthies who wanted to get on committees.

So they established "sub-committees." The Senate has 147; the House, 133. Everybody climb aboard. Staff workers literally administer the work of these committees. They cost $50,000,000 a year.

The White House, in addition to the Secret Service, has its own police department. Congress has one totalling 1,000 policemen. It also has five office buildings near the Capitol and is building a sixth for $84,000,000.

This is not to say that the members of both houses do not work hard. The opposite is true. They have made the job impossible. Each member reaches his office early, reads mail, takes phone calls, has from two to four committees waiting for his presence.

He must help some old lady back home get her Social Security check, assuage an irate editor, read a speech someone else wrote, attend meetings, gulp lunch, trot to the Senate or House in time to vote (without, let it be said, having time to read the bill), give work orders to keep his staff busy, and go to his hotel at night with a briefcase bulging with homework.

It is that, and more. Many businessmen constituents expect him to get Defense Department contracts for them. For this he needs hustle and a callous fist for desk pounding. He loses more often than he wins.

On the opposite side, he is loved-hated by rich lobbyists who want favors. He costs more, I feel, than he is worth. Worst of all, he can't seem to get legislation out of committee so that he can vote on it and do what he's paid to do — enact wise legislation. . .

The highest price ever paid for a sculpture is the $380,000 given at the New York saleroom of Parke-Bernet, on May 5, 1971, for Edgar Degas's (1834-1917) bronze Petite Danseuse de Quatorze Ans, executed in an edition of about 12 casts in 1880.

H. L. Hunt Heiress Disdains Wealth

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The daughter that H. L. Hunt always called "Peaches" says she doesn't believe money should rule her life. She just wants to make it as a singer. "Peaches" is June Hunt, 29, the daughter of the Texas billionaire who died Nov. 29. She is thought to be one of America's wealthiest women because of her father's fortune. But June says she isn't content to bask in the limelight cast by the Hunt empire. She's trying to make it in the entertainment world on her talent as a singer and guitarist. She says that her great wealth frightens some people she meets and causes resentment in others. "Money is necessary only to provide the necessities of life. It has nothing to do with true happiness," she says. She will release her first record this month. "It's kind of a novelty song. It's about a little blue man who follows this woman around," said Miss Hunt, who that can be piled three and four feet deep without crushing the bottom layer. That's the way Dr. Wilbur Gould, Ohio State University horticulture professor, reads the future. "The day is getting near when we simply will not be able to get picking labor," he said. "We are one of the few places where migrant labor still is available. "Take California, the No. 1 tomato state, it's all bulk handling and mechanized, 100 per cent. We are going to have to follow suit or we just aren't going to stay in business." But mechanized picking means green tomatoes are going to get picked along with ripe tomatoes. Dr. Gould thinks he has the answer for that—a new flotation system tested this season at the Libby processing plant at Leipsic. "The method was tested in 1968 and abandoned," said Dr. Gould. "I found the old equipment in Pennsylvania and it cost me $1,500 to get it. The industry added $7,500 and we installed it at Leipsic." Here's sketchily how it works: Ripe tomatoes have a higher specific gravity, or are more solid, than green tomatoes. If ripe and green tomatoes are put in the flotation sorter and the water is moving at exactly the right speed, the ripe tomatoes sink and the green tomatoes float — a separation demanding no hand help. "You'll see a couple or three 25-ton installations next year," said Dr. Gould. Machines will replace men, the tomato experts agree, but not because the growers don't want to pay proper wages, Dr. Gould said. Fewer and fewer migrant workers want to leave their homes for the summer. "After all," said Howard Sacks, a Sandusky County grower, "most of them have jobs back home in Texas that would be year-around jobs." But mechanical picking will be a cost-cutter eventually. Normal hand-picking wages ran $18 a ton this year. Many pickers and loaders made $40 a day. "Use of a mechanical harvester today means labor can be cut to about one-third the amount needed if hand-picking," said Paul Wright of Fremont, farm management area extension agent. "Much of that used can be local labor." Gould estimated Ohio's 1974 crop at 26,000 acres producing 18 tons to the acre for which processors were paying $57 a ton.

Cincinnati Officer, Assailant Slain

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A 22-year veteran of the Cincinnati Police Department became the force's second gunfire victim of the year when a troubled ex-fireman went berserk early Sunday. Dead after a shootout in suburban Saylor Park were Sgt. Charles Randorf, 46, and self-employed house painter Herbert Merz, 37. Police said the incident occurred after a patrolman responded to a trouble call involving a man firing shots in his home. The patrolman went to the house, was confronted by the gun-wielding Merz and put in a call for assistance. At least 15 cruisers with uniformed officers responded, along with plainclothes officers. They surrounded the house and used a bullhorn to call for Merz to surrender. Merz began firing out the window and the policemen returned fire, while taking refuge behind a concrete retaining wall. When Sgt. Handorf raised his head to look over the wall, he was shot in the eye, dying instantly. Merz died moments later in return fire, police said. Merz was later described as a man burdened with problems including a police record for assault and battery, drinking and difficulty in keeping a job. His neighbors said he had become despondent when he learned he had a brain tumor. Merz spent 10 years as a fireman before being dismissed on charges of insubordination and other disciplinary shuns flashy clothes and jewelry in favor of a conservative "tweedy" suit and gold necklace with a Biblical fish symbol. She crossed her hazel eyes, twisted her face into a pixie expression and said: "He keeps telling the woman: 'I lub you, I lub you.' Finally, she pushes him off the top of a tall building. When she gets down to the street, there he is again. And do you know what he says this time? 'I don't lub you anymore'." June Hunt says her singing began as a child when her father would pull her up next to him at the supper table of their home in Dallas and insist that she sing tunes that he liked. She studied music at Southern Methodist University, then launched into a career in religion, becoming a youth and college director of First Baptist Church in Dallas. She began touring the country on speaking engagements that usually included some singing. Miss Hunt's singing career got a boost in 1972 when she staged her own USO tour in Vietnam. Then, Truth Records, part of Stax Records in Memphis, became interested in her. The firm, famous for the "soul" music it produces, signed her as its first white female vocalist. "The Little Blue Man" record is the first result. It will be promoted through use of toy blue men sent to record shops.

OPEN HOUSE—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bolender will be honored with an open house honoring their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at their home, Route 1, Lockbourne. Hosting the event will be their sons, Vernon Jr., a student at Toledo University, and William, a student at the Ohio State University. Mr. Bolender and the former Bernice Hinton were married by the Rev. George Troutman at Trinity Lutheran Church in Circleville.

Wedding Vows Exchanged In Miami Springs, Fla.

The wedding of Miss Coleen Rene Thomas and Mr. John L. Melvin took place 7:30 p.m., Nov. 16th, at Miami Springs Country Club, Miami, Fla. Large sprays of white gladioli and red carnations, green garlands and white wedding bells decorated the ball room where the Rev. D. Phillips officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Joseph Thomas, Miami Springs, Fla., and Mrs. Clarence Perkins, Grove City. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ken Melvin, Miami Springs, Fla.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of candlelight silk trimmed in lace at the neckline, waist and long sleeves. A seed pearl crown with antique lace flowed softly to her waistline, a gift from her mother. She wore an antique pink cameo necklace, a gift from her step-mother, and carried a single long stemmed red rose with baby's breath and red satin ribbon.

Thank Offering Highlights Meeting

The November meeting of Emmett Chapel United Methodist Women was highlighted by the ingathering of the World Thank Offering and a devotional message by the Rev. Robert Miller.

Rev. Miller's theme was "An Attitude Of Gratitude." He outlined how the believer could attain this mark of Christian maturity. Ultimately as one thinks of the Lord and his blessings it leads to having the faith and the grace to thank God in everything.

The next meeting will be held 8 p.m. Dec. 11th, at the church. Members are reminded to bring a gift for their prayer partners as well as various items to be used as gifts at a rest home. Items needed are talcum powder, hand lotion, jewelry and small change purses. New officers for 1975 will be installed.

Morning Study Group Schedules Meeting

Morning Study Group, Circleville Branch AAUW, will meet 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Carol Rorick, 508 Plaza Drive.

"Upstairs At The White House" by J. B. West will be discussed.

Christmas Party Planned By Circle

Evening Circle of First Presbyterian Church will hold its Christmas party 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Emerson Spicer, 133 E. High St.

Mrs. Jessica Wood League Speaker

Mrs. Jessica Wood, probation officer for Pickaway County Juvenile Court, was guest speaker for the Tuesday evening meeting of Child Development League in the home of Mrs. Paul Kowalski, 2050 Chippewa Drive. Mrs. Wood listed the functions of the court and explained the ways in which they are performed.

Members agreed to observe "Husband's Night Out" in February with an evening at the Kahiki in Columbus.

Mrs. Margaret Parker asked members to bring a favorite recipe to each meeting beginning in January. They will later be put in a recipe book. Co-hostess, Mrs. Gene Yurko, served refreshments of hors d'oeuvres and punch.

Attending were two new members, Mrs. Robert Gilliam and Mrs. John Glanton. Others were: Mrs. David Berkebile, Mrs. James Butler, Mrs. Tom Duvall, Mrs. Tony Kamler, Mrs. Paul Kowalski, Mrs. Wayne Lash.

Mrs. Ralph Morehart, Mrs. Robert Parker, Mrs. Fred Reichert, Mrs. Joe Rooney, Mrs. David Scheible, Mrs. Robert Scranton, Mrs. Claude Shepard and Mrs. Charles Walker.

The next meeting will be on Jan. 7th at the home of Mrs. Ralph Morehart, 456 Edwards Road. Guest speaker will be Dr. Robert Liggett.

Philip's Flock Sponsors Dinner

Philip's Flock of St. Philip's Episcopal Church is planning a carry-in dinner and tree trimming party for all members of the parish at 5 p.m., Dec. 15th, in the Parish Hall.

Each family is asked to bring one main dish and one side dish, and their own table service. To trim the tree after dinner, cheery Christmas cards are to be brought.

Guild Schedules Christmas Tea

A Christmas tea will be held by Berger Hospital Guild 21, beginning 6:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Collis Young, 311 E. Main St. Gifts will be exchanged.

Dinner Scheduled By Busy Bees Club

Roundtown Busy Bees Extension Club will meet at noon Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Fern Schwarz, 147 Watt St., for a carry-in dinner.

Berger Guild 45 To Entertain Guests

Berger Hospital Guild 45 will entertain guests at its 8 p.m. Tuesday meeting in the home of Mrs. Jerry Walters, 981 Lynwood Ave. Gifts will be exchanged by all who attend.

Home Ec Teacher Featured

By V. LONG
Miss Mary Katherine (Kathy) Miller feels that most Westfall students are really cooperative and friendly.
New to the Westfall School System, Ms. Miller teaches Home Economics I, Consumer Education, Family Living and Child Development.
She holds a BS in Home Economics from Ohio State University and is presently attending classes one night a week in "Continuing Education."
"There is more to Home Ec than just food and nutrition," comments Ms. Miller. Consumer Education and Family Living are just part of them. She feels that Home Economics touches everyone's life, including boys and is a part of everyday life.
A resident of Columbus, she enjoys ballet, tennis and gourmet cooking. She dislikes people fighting.
The students wish the best of luck to Ms. Miller.

Sisters New WHS Students

By NANCY SCHEIN and SHIRLEY FIELDS
This week's new students being featured are Pat and Pam Dolphin. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey, who reside in Mt. Sterling.
Pat is a senior. Some of her hobbies are horseback riding, ice skating, and swimming. Her comment about Westfall is that she really likes it.
Pam, who is a junior, says she likes Westfall a whole bunch. Pam's hobbies are water skiing, horseback riding, swimming and ice skating.
The girls attended Washington Court House High School before moving to Westfall.
We are pleased to welcome the girls to Westfall.

Assembly Highlights Thanksgiving

By JACQUI RICE
A Thanksgiving assembly was held for the student body of Westfall High School Nov. 27. It was held during the students third period class.
An opening prayer was given by the student body president Jeff Davis. Following the prayer, the school mixed chorus added some spirit to the assembly by singing, "Gonna Build A Mountain", and "The Lords Prayer".
The Rev. Richard Crosby, pastor of the Williamsport United Methodist Church, spoke concerning the spirit of Thanksgiving. He opened his talk by asking about school spirit. Rev. Crosby then led the student body in a Westfall cheer and proceeded to lead us in the "Jesus" cheer to show us some Thanksgiving spirit.
The chorus then sang two final selections. They were "Americano" and "One by One People Come Sing Together".
Rev. Baumen, pastor of the Columbus Southwest Nazarene Church, closed the assembly by giving the benediction.

Parliamentary Team Takes First Place

By V. LONG
The Westfall FFA Chapter Members recently participated in a sub-district parliamentary procedure contest held at Logan Elm High School. The group captured first place as they received 83 points out of 100.
The members participating were Tom Schooley, president; Terry Stevens, vice president; Jeff Karshner, secretary; Jim Fausnaugh, treasurer; John Schein, sentinel; Homer Smoot, reporter; Dan Justice, Roger Johnson, and Scott Lahrmr.
The team had to hold a meeting in twenty minutes. They were required to show at least six abilities pertaining to parliamentary procedure, such as the officers' reports and making a motion.
Westfall competed with Logan Elm, Adena, Southeastern-Ross Vocational School, Paint Valley, Zane Trace and the Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center.
Westfall, along with Logan Elm, will go to the district Parliamentary Procedure contest. The winner of this contest will go to the State contest, in April.

'Echo' Important Part Of School

By JAN ELLISON
So far this year the staff has published three issues of the Echo. Each one seems to be an improvement over the last.
Each staff member was asked, "What do you think of the Echo?" Here are some of their answers.
Mr. Wellington-advisor — "I think the staff does a great job and with a little more help from other people they could do a better job."
Mary Musselman-co-editor — "I think we could stand for more improvement."
Lynn Stillings-co-editor — "I think we should have more suggestions from students as to what they would like in the Echo."
Iris Halley-typist — "I think it's a very important part of the school."
Kim Finch-reporter — "I think it's good, but like everything else it could be better."

Debbie Green-reporter — "I think the staff works really hard but doesn't get all the credit it deserves."
Stephine Francis-reporter — "I think its fine, but I think we should be able to print what we want."
Jan Ellison-reporter — "I think its getting better all the time."
Vanessa Long-reporter — "I think we need more participation from the clubs."
Gary Thompson-reporter — "I think it needs more material, but its a good paper."
Jim Fausnaugh-reporter — "I think it needs to have more school happenings."
Jeff Karshner-reporter — "I think it needs more information in the stories, but its a good paper."
Theresa Conley-reporter — "I think its a good paper, its better than it was last year and the staff works really hard, but it would be better if more people would help."

AMENDMENT TO REGULATION NO. 69-1
REGULATION 74-4
Amendment to regulation no. 69-1 of the Board of Health of Pickaway County, Ohio, Health District Governing the collection and transportation of all refuse in the Pickaway County General Health District.
Whereas the Pickaway County, Ohio, Board of Health passed regulation no. 69-1, 1969 governing the collection and transportation of refuse;
Whereas the fee for each registration certificate to collect and transport refuse in the Pickaway County General Health District has proven inadequate for proper administration, inspection and enforcement now and therefore;
Be it resolved by the Board of Health of Pickaway County, Ohio, as follows:
1. That the existing Section 3.4 be amended by deleting "The registration certificate fee shall be $10.00 annually payable in advance to the Pickaway County Health District for the purpose of inspection, administration and enforcement of the regulations." and adding "The registration certificate shall be $25.00 annually payable in advance on or before July 1 of each year to the Pickaway County Health District for the purpose of inspection, administration and enforcement of the regulations."
2. That this amendment shall take effect and operate from and after the earliest date allowed by law.

Recommend Panel On Teachers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State School Supt. Martin Essex planned to recommend today that the state Board of Education create a 15-member commission to advise it on teacher education and certification matters.

The action was to follow a board hearing on new teacher education requirements for colleges and universities in Ohio.

Among other things, the proposed new standards would revise methods of developing teacher education courses, call for lower faculty-student ratios in education classes, require earlier practical experiences for education students and require preparation of all teachers in the teaching of reading.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Four Years Later, 'Miserable' Isn't

DEAR ABBY: Will you do me (and countless thousands of teen-aged girls) a tremendous favor and re-run the letter and your reply from your column of September 6, 1968?

I wrote it, and now I want to write a "P.S." Thank you.

DEAR "D": With pleasure:
 DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl and my problem is my mother. I hate her. It may sound terrible to you, but I really hate her. I used to think I would get over it, but I know now I never will.

Sometimes I think I will go out of my mind if she doesn't quit picking on me. I never do anything to suit her. She doesn't like my clothes, my hair, my friends or anything.
 My friends are not bums, either. They are good kids and they aren't wild or on pot or anything like that, but my mother says they look like hippies, and they aren't.
 Please help me, Abby, before I run away from home. I cry myself to sleep at night because my mother is so hateful. If I babysit, she makes me put the money in the bank. Other girls can buy records or do whatever they want with the money they earn.
 Don't tell me to talk to my father. He's always on her side. And don't tell me my mother "loves" me and is only doing things for my own good. If you print my letter, don't sign name or I'll get killed."

 Freezing or near-freezing weather is forecast to continue over Ohio through Tuesday as cold air sweeps southward into the state in the wake of a low pressure system.

The low crossed the Great Lakes Sunday and was located at dawn today over eastern Canada.

Widespread cloudiness and snow flurries were general over Ohio Sunday night, but accumulations were an inch or less. Snow flurry activity over the western part of the state was forecast to decrease today, although additional accumulations of one to three inches could occur in the snowbelt of northeastern Ohio.

Temperatures at dawn today ranged generally in the 20s and were forecast to remain below freezing across the state throughout the day.

Skies are forecast to clear late this afternoon and tonight, bringing an end to the snow flurries. Lows tonight will range from around 10 degrees to the mid teens.

MISERABLE IN PHOENIX
 DEAR MISERABLE: Your letter doesn't shock me at all. I receive many such letters each week. Almost every normal teen-ager alternately loves and hates his parents.
 It's not easy to be criticized, restricted, corrected, and disciplined day in and day out. But parents who really love their children, prove it by consistently letting their children know what is expected of them. Parents who are "soft" and permissive rear confused, insecure children.

I don't expect you to agree with me today, but keep this letter and read it again three years from now, and then you'll understand it perfectly. Good luck, dear. You're lucky. You are loved."

DEAR ABBY: Now, for my "P.S." I am no longer "Miserable." I am grateful.
 I am 20 years old, Abby, and I just found that clipping tucked away in my 1968 diary. (I am "cleaning out my closets" because I am going to be married next June, and I'll be moving.)
 You were so right. My parents were stricter than the parents of my friends, but now I realize that they set extra high standards for me because they loved me and wanted me to be proud of myself.
 I am saving a copy of that clipping to show my daughter if I am ever lucky enough to have one, because I intend to raise my daughter just like my mother raised me, and she may "hate" me for the same reasons I "hated" my mother.
 I am graduating from college in June, and marrying a wonderful young man on the following Saturday.
 How can I thank you?
 "D" IN PHOENIX
 DEAR "D": You already have. Thanks for writing, Honey, and may all life's blessings be yours.

Train Fire Extinguished

The Circleville Fire Department was called to the scene of a freight train fire at 10:05 p.m. Sunday. The local department had been notified of the fire by the Portsmouth dispatcher for the N and W Railroad.

The train was stopped between Rosewood and Highland Avenues at that time. Firemen were on the scene for over an hour and used two 20-pound dry powder extinguishers and water to kill the flame.

Most of the burning was confined to the turbocharger in engine 231. There is no estimate of the damages done at this time.

The modern computer was made possible by the invention of the paint-contact transistor by John Bardeen and Walter Brattain, announced in July 1948, and the junction transistor by R. L. Wallace, Morgan Sparks and Dr. William Shockley in early 1951.

Knowles Could Be 'Most Heinous Murderer'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A lanky, red-haired Florida parolee, already charged with six murders, may be questioned by authorities elsewhere about murders that occurred during the two-month period in which he may have visited 37 or more states. Paul John Knowles, 28, was arrested near McDonough, Ga. on Nov. 17 after allegedly abducting a Florida state trooper and a Delaware businessman in Florida. Their bodies were found four days later in south Georgia and he was charged with their murders.

Knowles has also been charged with four other murders and is wanted for questioning in at least 11 more slayings or disappearances in Connecticut, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and New Mexico.

All that led Ellis Rubin of Miami, a lawyer involved in one aspect of Knowles' case, to tell reporters last week:

"There are many, many more murders that will be disclosed, making Mr. Knowles the most heinous murderer in history—if he is convicted."

Rubin represents another lawyer to whom Knowles turned over tape recordings last October. Rubin is trying to get a federal appeals court to keep the tapes from being used as evidence against Knowles.

Rubin said his "observation" about Knowles was based on information given to him by a federal judge about the "incrimination nature" of the recordings, which Knowles reportedly has boasted could make him as famous as "Bonnie and Clyde."

In addition to the murder charges stemming from the kidnaping, Knowles also has been charged with two other slayings in Georgia and with the death of a Florida housewife in August and the slaying of an Ohio Power Co. official in Ohio on Sept. 3.

He is wanted for questioning in the Nov. 7 slayings of a Jonesboro, Ga., high school band director and a young girl; the death of a Jacksonville, Fla., woman whose automobile turned up in Lima, Ohio; the slaying of a hitchhiker near Macon, Ga., on Nov. 15 and the disappearance of his traveling companion, and in deaths in Connecticut, Florida, Alabama and New Mexico.

Georgia Bureau of Investigation Inspector Ron Angel said the state agency is preparing a complete file on Knowles to send to police in areas where he is known to have been.

Authorities say it is the Ohio murder that has produced the evidence on Knowles' nationwide travels. Detective James Ketcham of the Allen County, Ohio, Sheriff's Department, said there is evidence that Knowles drove through 37 states from Sept. 4 until his capture, using credit cards and the car that belonged to the victim, William Bates.

Ketcham says a handwriting comparison indicates that Knowles signed Bates' name to charge gasoline and food in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Texas, Alabama and Missouri.

He said receipts also turned up from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine and Maryland.

Georgia authorities acknowledge they have been deluged with requests for information about Knowles from other states, but are operating under a gag rule pending Knowles' Georgia trials.

Another key figure in the case is Sheldon Yavitz, Knowles' personal attorney. Yavitz said Knowles gave him the tapes on Oct. 26.

Yavitz initially refused to release them to a federal judge in Macon, Ga. and was jailed on contempt charges. The tapes are now in the custody of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Yavitz, represented by Rubin, has asked the appellate court to dismiss the lower court's ruling that the tapes can be used as evidence against Knowles. He said Knowles gave him the tapes in a sealed envelope with instructions that they be played only in event of his death.

Yavitz claims that to allow the use of the tapes would damage the lawyer-client relationship and violate Knowles' Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination.

But Judge Wilbur D. Owens ruled that the Knowles-Yavitz relationship was a business matter under which Yavitz was to have the tapes published in a book and split the royalties with Knowles' survivors.

Knowles, a native of Orlando, Fla., has four brothers and sisters. His parents are still living.

He spent most of the past 10 years in jail, beginning in 1964 when he received a five-year sentence for kidnaping a Jacksonville, Fla., policeman, according to published reports. After another series of stretches, he was paroled last May 14.

After his parole, he went to San Francisco to visit a nightclub waitress, Angela Samuels, to whom he had become engaged through correspondence while he was in jail. Miss Samuels said they broke off their marriage plans shortly after his arrival and that Knowles returned to Florida.

No Sign Of Hunter

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The fate of a 20-year Florence, Ky., man who disappeared while hunting nearly a week ago is still unknown although two developments were reported over the weekend.

Boone County police said a hunting companion of Edward Nichols, the missing man, has agreed to take a polygraph test Tuesday. David Stites, 20, has been questioned regarding the disappearance of Nichols last Tuesday.

A bone found Saturday has been sent to a Cincinnati research laboratory to determine if it is human. It was found in northern Gallatin County near the Boone County line.

It was located some distance from the 10,000-acre Big Bone Lick State Park, which was the site of an extensive search for Nichols.

The discovery of ferocious wild pigs in the rugged backwoods country led to fear Nichols may have been attacked by the animals. Seven pigs had to be shot last week when they threatened searchers, police said.

12 Die In Weekend Auto Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A dozen persons died in a dozen separate traffic accidents across Ohio this weekend, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported today.

Three of the dead were pedestrians, killed in accidents in Clermont County, Euclid and Warren County.

The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead:
FRIDAY NIGHT
DOVER — Edna Haas, 52, Dover, when the car in which she was riding collided with another in Dover.

SATURDAY
MINGO JUNCTION — Joseph Weigand, 24, Follansbee, W. Va., in a one-car accident in Mingo Junction.
NEWARK — Thomas Sanders, 34, Columbus, in a one-car accident on a Licking County road.

MASSILLON — Larry Ickes, 19, Tuscarawas, in a head-on collision with a truck on Ohio 21 south of Massillon.

BATAVIA — Mastin Wright, 52, Williamsburg, hit by an auto along U. S. 50 in Clermont County.

Tigers Topple Vikings

By BOB BENSONHAVER
Herald Staff Writer

Three Circleville players ended in double figures as the Tigers toppled the Teays Valley Vikings, 57-42, in a battle of the unbeaten squads on Vikings territory Saturday.

The win gives Circleville a 5-0 record and the Vikings a 3-1 mark.

Perry Hoskins, Biff Bumgarner, and George Moore each sacked 12 points to lead the Tigers in the county rival victory.

Bumgarner completed four of seven shots from the floor and made four of six shots from the foul stripe. He had five rebounds.

Moore connected for five of nine attempts and two of five foul shots. He claimed one assist and seven rebounds.

Hoskins hit the nets from the floor for four of eight shots and made all four foul shots. He had three assists and one rebound.

Brad Spangler scored eight points and had four rebounds and one assist, Harold Reed made six points and two rebounds, Brent Mancini contributed three points and two rebounds, Mike McCoy dropped in two and had three rebounds, and Phil Roll scored two points and two rebounds.

Both defensive units worked very hard to keep the players from scoring, thus, keeping the teams shooting below their average.

The Tigers, again the underdog in height, outplayed its opponents in every category.

Circleville outrebounded Teays Valley 26-17 and committed 13 turnovers to the Vikings' 14.

In shooting, the Tigers completed 22 of 42 from the floor for a 52 per cent night, while the Vikings canned for 18 of 47 for 38 per cent.

At the foul line, Circleville hit 13 of 21 while the Vikings connected on six of eight.

Teays Valley's Terry Collins led the Vikings in scoring with nine points. He had one rebound. Kevin Pettibone had eight, George Spohn and Chuck Glitt each had six and Bill Browning had four. Lee Stiles, Rusty Rathburn, Dave Schiff, and Steve Williams each had two and Dan Smoot had one.

Though the Tiger's Bumgarner made the first points of the game, the Vikings gained a slim half-time lead, 25-24.

Circleville's Moore came into the third period scoring the first points to give the Tiger's a 26-25 edge, and Hoskins dumped a bucket to make the Tiger's margin three points.

With 4:47 left in the third quarter, Teays Valley coach Bob Hoover called a time out. But the Tiger's offense was not stopped until Reed and Hoskins both sacked two points each making the score 32-25 over the Vikings.

Pettibone made the first points of the second half for the Blue and Gold, but Circleville's Moore came inside to score another basket to keep the Tiger seven point lead.

Browning hit the nets for two points for the Vikings. But the Tiger's offense could not be stopped as Spangler and Moore each shot scoring baskets.

With 1:10 left in the third period, Spohn hit for two points making the last bucket of the period for the Vikings.

Hoskins and Mancini each scored giving the Tiger's a 10-point margin over the Vikings at the end of the third period.

The fourth period was like a see-saw game with each team scoring in succession. Moore was able to connect on a free throw and two inside shots with Hoskins claiming a bucket to give the Tiger's a spurt for the 57-42 final score.

The Tiger's host Greenfield Friday at the high school in a SCOL game while the Vikings host Grandview Tuesday and play at Franklin Heights Friday in Metro League tilts.

CHS Wins 1st Reserve Meet

Circleville's rapidly improving reserve wrestlers captured the Circleville Reserve Wrestling Tournament with nine competitors gaining first or second places out of the 13 weight classes.

In scoring 108 points, the reserve Tigers won four first places and five seconds.

Teays Valley finished second with 107 points, Marysville was third with 64½, Pickerington had 62½, Fairfield Union had 58, North Union had, 50, Licking Heights had 25, and Whitehall had 24.

Circleville started the tournament this year to give the reserve wrestlers an opportunity to gain valuable experience in wrestling by providing a double-elimination tournament. Every wrestler competed twice.

The Circleville High School Key Club helped make the tournament a success by providing trophies for first and second place and medals for the first places in each weight class.

Cleveland Browns Ending In Cellar
CLEVELAND, Ohio—The Cleveland Browns were assured of their first finish in the cellar of the American Conference Central Division after suffering a 41-17 trimming this weekend at the hands of the Dallas Cowboys in National Football League action.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach hit Golden Richards twice with touchdown passes within little more than one minute of the first quarter Saturday to give the Cowboys a 14-0 advantage, and they never surrendered the lead.

Lions Knock Bengals Out Of Playoffs
CINCINNATI (AP)—Look who's still in the National Football League playoffs picture.

The Detroit Lions, that's who. The same team that got off to an 0-4 start in the aftermath of the death of head coach Don McCafferty.

The Lions, one of the NFL's hottest clubs over the past two months, won their seventh game in nine outings Sunday with a whirlwind last-minute drive to overtake Cincinnati 23-19.

"Winning a game like this is nothing new to us," said Ron Jessie, who hauled in a 45-yard bomb to set up the winning touchdown that came with 29 seconds left in the game.

"We've done it a few times this year," said the slippery wide receiver, who helped fan outside hopes of a playoff spot.

Awarded the game ball for his timely reception and 18-yard touchdown run, Jessie turned it over to Lions receivers coach Raymond Berry.

"I gave it to Raymond because he's worked with me and taught me everything I know," said Jessie, the game's leading receiver with five catches for 87 yards.

The Lions, now 7-6, knocked Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson out of the game and the Bengals out of any playoff possibility.

Southeastern Rips Mustangs In SVC

Southeastern, hitting 10 more baskets than Westfall, downed the Mustangs 69-50 in a Scioto Valley Conference game Saturday at Westfall.

The win moves Southeastern into a tie for the SVC lead with Paint Valley, who, topped Westfall Friday. Both teams have 3-0 marks. Westfall is 1-3 in the league and 2-3 overall.

Southeastern controlled the game from the opening tip, breaking away to a 16-10 lead after the first period. Halftime score was 35-23 and after three periods, the count was 50-34.

Rick Stevens, a 6-4 junior, paced Southeastern with 23 points on 10 field goals and three free throws. Craig Kirk had 15 points and Tim Clemmons had 14.

Southeastern hit 29 of 64 shots from the floor for a 45 per cent average and 10 of 20 from the foul line.

Bill Hamman paced the Mustangs with 10 points on five field goals. Terry Hanson had nine, Jeff Karshner had eight, Brad Beatty had seven, Mack Dick had six, Doug Williams and Chris Riddle had four each, and Kevin Reid had two.

The Mustangs hit 19 of 59 shots from the floor for a 32 per cent and canned 12 of 17 foul shots.

Stevens, who played the best game of his career, paced Southeastern to a 37-32 edge in rebounding with 15.

Westfall, hoping to get back onto the winning track, hosts Piketon in a SVC game Friday.

NEED A JOB?

Here are a few tips to use when comparing a civilian job with an Air Force enlistment.

You should receive at least $344.10 starting salary. This sum reflects take home pay after medical insurance is taken out. Also request regular promotions with pay raises for length of employment.

Request 30 days paid vacation per year starting with your first year. You should have low rate or free world travel privileges anytime on vacation.

You must be able to continue your education with the company paying 75 per cent of the cost of learning. If you are selected for college, your tuition should be paid and your normal salary continued.

Ask for $300 worth of clothing and a monthly maintenance allowance, plus rations and housing allowance.

Make sure the company has a swimming pool, tennis courts, golf course, library and movie theater for your use.

Your employer should also provide unlimited sick leave with pay, and don't forget, free dental care for you and free medical care for you and your family.

The company should provide grocery, department, laundry, variety and other stores which reduce your expenses up to 30 per cent.

Secure a job for your future now and leave after the Holidays. Your Air Force Recruiter has all the details.

Demos End Meet; Unity Stressed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — With ringing declarations of restored brotherhood, Democrats have sent their leaders back to Washington or home states to make good on promises to attack the nation's problems.

But two of the party's leading presidential possibilities already were soft-pedaling the key plank in an economic program adopted by the unprecedented Democratic mini-convention — strong economic controls.

Sens. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. of Texas and Birch Bayh of Indiana said in television appearances Sunday they considered wage-price controls a "last resort" in the economic battle.

Meanwhile, back at the convention hall, Rep. Richard Fulton, D-Tenn., chairman of an economic panel, said delegates were agreed that "some form of price and perhaps wage controls are necessary."

The return to the practical side of politics followed a euphoric finale to the miniconvention which adopted a party charter, endorsed an economic platform for the Democratic Congress and showed more unity than the Democrats have exhibited since the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The economic package adopted Friday night was based on speeches by Democratic leaders from Capitol Hill. It called for controls on prices and all forms of income, tax reform, strict energy conservation, credit rationing, national health insurance and public service jobs.

The charter banished the quota system which had divided the party bitterly in 1972. It was replaced with a mandatory recruiting program called "affirmative action" to bring women, minorities and other traditionally under-represented groups into the party.

The first constitution ever adopted by an American political party also bans discrimination, outlaws winner-take-all primaries, reforms delegate selection procedures for national conventions, opens all party meetings to the public and makes the national party supreme over state parties.

The real test of the new affirmative action substitute for quotas will come when the Compliance Review Commission rules on state programs and spells out what programs will satisfy the new rules.

The commission also will have to determine just what is meant when the new charter says the reforms extend to "all party affairs." Some party regulars have complained that having to recruit women, blacks, youths and others every time a local committee wanted to conduct a fund-raising drive would be taking it too far.

Small Group Of Republicans Gather To Eye Party Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — While 1,800 Democratic delegates were meeting in Kansas City to vote on party reforms, a relatively small group of Republicans convened here over the weekend to study proposed reforms of their own party.

By the end of the three-day session, a panel of some 43 Republicans had voted to recommend that the Republican National Committee supervise all campaign spending by the party's presidential nominee.

The proposal was an attempt to avoid a repetition of the Watergate scandal that resulted in part from the financing of a Republican intelligence-gathering program during the 1972 campaign.

The Republicans also voted to recommend changes in delegate selection and to enlarge the Republican National Committee.

The GOP group, called the Rule 29 Committee, was established at the 1972 Republican National Convention to study such proposals and make recommendations to the full Republican National Committee. The full committee meets in March to vote on whether to accept the recommendations.

A proposal to enlarge the national committee by adding 11 persons representing women, blacks, ethnic groups and elected officials originally was defeated by a 22 to 21 vote Saturday. It was then adopted Sunday by a vote of 24 to 19 after a representative of Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller switched from opposing to favoring the proposal.

The Rule 29 Committee also recommended steps to encourage state parties to recruit convention delegates from the ranks of women, minorities, ethnic groups, the young and the elderly.

The delegate-selection proposal consists of an optional program for state parties to attract persons of all income levels and backgrounds.

The proposal, adopted by a unanimous vote, was a compromise between those who wanted the committee to take no action in the delegate-selection area and those who wanted to recommend mandatory steps to broaden the party's base.

OEA Meet Approves Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A five-point legislative program, including a public employee collective bargaining bill, was approved Saturday by the Ohio Education Association fall Representative Assembly.

Also set as major legislative priorities of the big teacher organization were proposals to equalize school financing, increase support to state universities, establish an educational practices board and improve teacher retirement benefits.

The collective bargaining proposal calls for a state employment relations board to administer all negotiating by public employees and repeal of the state's Ferguson Act, which prohibits public employee strikes.

Local bargaining would include salaries, hours and other matters affecting employment or teaching and learning conditions. Grievance procedures would be included in all negotiated contracts.

In addition to proposing a 5 per cent increase in state support of universities, the 1,200 delegates attending the one-day assembly also urged a two-year ban on student fee increases.

The educational practices board would regulate the schooling and certification of public school teachers in Ohio, the OEA said.

Delegates suggested legislation providing for full retirement benefits for teachers after 25 years of service, and new employment-dismissal laws for teachers.

Woman Has Sextuplets; Lost Quads Last Year

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Undaunted by the loss of quadruplets last year, Charlotte Lange continued to take a fertility drug. Now she has given birth to sextuplets and the five tiny survivors are clinging to life in respirators.

"They're all normally formed, all pretty little babies," said Dr. James Harrow, director of newborn services at Valley Medical Center. "But their condition is guarded. It's going to be up and down this week."

The infants — slightly more than three months premature — started their procession into the world at 6:36 a.m. Sunday at O'Connor Hospital. Officials referred to the new arrivals as babies A through F. The smallest, a boy, died about four hours after birth.

Mrs. Lange, 26, of San Jose, was in excellent condition, according to hospital spokesman Mike Maurer. He said she was in labor 7½ hours before giving birth to two girls and four boys ranging in weight from 1 pound, 15 ounces to 2½ pounds.

The five survivors were transferred to the Neonatal Center at nearby Valley Medical Center. Spokesman Carl Heintze said they were placed in respirators because of hyaline membrane problems, a common disorder among premature babies in which the lungs have difficulty absorbing oxygen.

The father, Alvin Lange, 31, an armored car security guard, was described as "shocked and tired" after the long hospital ordeal. He brought his wife to the hospital after she went into labor Saturday night in the 27th week of pregnancy.

Mrs. Lange rested in her flower-filled room, attended by her mother, Mrs. James Duty, and her pregnant sister, Leslie Perry, 23.

"It's kind of scary," the new mother said. "All I'm thinking about now is bringing them home and getting the family started. Originally I had hoped for four kids."

Mrs. Lange and her husband have a three-bedroom home.

"This is going to mean an awful lot of babysitting," Mrs. Duty said. "When Charlotte lost the four last year we said, 'try again.' Well, here we are with more than we bargained for. If they live we'll be very happy."

Maurer said Mrs. Lange had been taking the fertility drug Pergonal and according to her doctor, Vincent Nola, was due to deliver March 13.

"Doctor Nola told me there would probably be four babies," Mrs. Lange was quoted as saying. "When the fifth one was born, I was completely shocked."

DECA Group Attends Conference

Officers of the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School DECA chapter recently attended the 1974-75 fall Delegates Conference at the Sheraton Hotel in Columbus. Attending the conference were DeWayne Tanner, president; Geraldine Winfield, vice-president; Larry Johnson, treasurer; Brenda Houglund, reporter and historian.

Gary Frey, the distributive education advisor at the vocational school, accompanied the group of officers to the conference.

The conference started at 6:30 p.m. on Nov. 15 with a general session. Other activities on the program included soapbox campaigns for regional vice-presidential elections, Miss Ohio DECA contest and the Ohio DECA officer elections.

A dance was also held that night featuring music by "Prism".

The new Miss Ohio DECA, Darlene DaRubba, was announced on Nov. 16. Gerianne Potrafke handed the gavel of the presidency over to newly elected Bill Kibler.

During the conference, the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School's DECA chapter was given its student of the year plaque and its charter as an active DECA chapter.

Two Cited In Weekend Accidents

Seventeen-year-old Douglas A. Konkle, Route 1, was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Deal, for failure to yield the right of way, when he was involved in a two-car accident, 4:47 p.m. Saturday.

Konkle stopped at the intersection of East-Ringgold Southern Road when he pulled into the path of a vehicle traveling west on the Circleville-Stoutsville Road, driven by Robert Lee Brobst, 36, Route 1, Stoutsville.

Konkle's auto struck the Brobst vehicle in the right front.

Brobst and a passenger, Ruth A. Brobst, 38, Route 1, Stoutsville, were treated and released from Berger Hospital for minor injuries.

Deputy J. Phillip Brown cited fifteen-year-old Penny S. Shields, Ashville, for driving without an operator's permit, when she wrecked the auto she was driving, 2:35 p.m. Sunday.

Ms. Shields was traveling north on the Circleville-Groveport when she lost control of the auto going off the right side of the road.

No injuries were reported.

Foreign Aid Bill Tangled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The foreign aid program is headed for a Senate-House tangle over aid to Turkey in the face of a move in the House to shut off that aid immediately.

House Republicans planned to caucus on the troubled bill today. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was to go before the House Foreign Affairs Committee later today to appeal for approval of the aid program.

House rejection of the $2.6 billion foreign aid bill would not kill the program. It could still be funded under a stop-gap continuing resolution to leave its fate up to the new Congress convening in January.

But Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., a leader of the move to cut off U.S. military aid to Turkey, effective Tuesday, vowed to try to place a cutoff clause in any such continuing resolution.

The Senate voted last week to delay the Turkish aid cutoff until Feb. 14. But Rosenthal said he will oppose delay unless Kissinger can assure that progress is being made in negotiations to get Turkey's occupation forces out of Cyprus.

"Unless some significant event takes place, there's no basis for compromise," Rosenthal said in a telephone interview from the Democratic mini-convention at Kansas City.

Rosenthal said he will move first to keep the Tuesday deadline for Turkish aid cutoff in the $2.6 billion foreign aid authorization bill scheduled for House action Tuesday.

In approving the continuing resolution earlier this year, the House voted the cutoff by margins up to three to one before the November elections. This indicates that Rosenthal's amendment will set up a House-Senate fight that could last until the present Congress adjourns, probably at the end of next week.

We do all in our power to have all our Advertised Specials on our shelves when you shop for them. Sometimes, due to conditions beyond our control, we run out of an advertised special. If this should happen to you, ask the store office for a RAIN CHECK which entitles you to the same advertised special at the same special price any time within 2 weeks.

LIGHTS OFF TO KEEP YOURS ON!

Kroger is leading the way to conserve vital energy by reducing the amount of electric our stores use. Beginning today, we're on a conservation program we hope will reduce electricity a full 1/3 without any disadvantage to our customers. Also, this type of savings will allow us to maintain lower prices. When you notice a few lights out at Kroger you'll know we're trying to do our part to save fuel and whip inflation. Now!

UPC THE FUTURE TODAY

You may have noticed a bar symbol similar to the one above on the label of more and more grocery products recently and have wondered why it's there.

This is called a UPC symbol... which stands for Universal Product Code. It is a new nationwide identification system for grocery manufacturers and products, readable by the human eye and — in the computer age — by an optical scanner. The first five digits identify the company that makes the product ("The Kroger Co." becomes "11110") and the second five digits identify the item (for example, "80396" above says "40 oz. size, Kroger Brand Pork and Beans").

The use of a unique identifying number from manufacturer to store shelf will benefit shoppers by assisting warehouse and store personnel to verify shipments and to handle products faster and more accurately... to help avoid out-of-stock conditions. It also will help with billing and with inventory control.

The UPC also will be used with electronic checkstand systems. A scanner "reads" the item identification on the symbol, automatically — and the price and name of the item printed on the scanner slot.

The UPC is a preparation for the future. By providing accurate, complete identification of grocery products, it will help the food industry serve supermarket shoppers better.

We hear you and we're trying to help!
